LETTER OF INVITATION

São Paulo, December 5th 2019.

Dear International Partner,

The USP International Cooperation Office is offering up to 10 scholarships under the Scholarship Programme for Theoretical and Practical Training in Languages. The scholarships are aimed at graduate students as part of their educational background and experience in Teaching English.

This Call for Applications is aimed at graduate students at non-Brazilian institutions based abroad and party to a cooperation agreement with the University of São Paulo. Successful applicants will join the Language Education Programme at USP (LEUSP) from March to December, 2020, as required.

The LEUSP Programme offers free-of-charge English language courses that focus on preparing USP undergraduates for proficiency exams in English and academic communication. LEUSP also conducts extracurricular activities and support for the preparation of materials and meetings.

During their stay, successful applicants have the choice of obtaining academic credits by registering in the following postgraduate disciplines: Intercultural Language Education 1: Theoretical Frameworks; Intercultural Language Education 2: Experiential Learning.

Best regards,

Valmor Tricoli
Provost for International Cooperation
