Study Permits

Maintaining your Student Status: In order to remain in Canada on a Study Permit you must make ongoing progress towards completing your program.

Study Breaks: For the purpose of assessing if a student is actively pursuing their studies, any leave taken from a program of studies in Canada should not exceed 150 days from the date the leave commenced and must be authorized by the DLI. If you do not resume studies within 150 days, you should either change your status to a visitor or worker (if possible) or leave Canada in order to avoid immigration consequences.

Working Off-Campus: A study permit authorizes full-time students to work part-time (up to 20 hours/week) off campus during studies and full-time off campus during sessional breaks without a work permit while a full-time student.

Maintaining Temporary Status

Post-Graduate Work Permits

- Can only be obtained once and will allow you to gain valuable Canadian work experience
- Length of study must be at least 8 months
- Valid for up to 3 years depending on length of program completed
- Deadline to apply is within 6 months of receiving confirmation of completion of the program of study
- Requirement to have valid status when applying for a post-graduation work permit
- Total government fee remains $255 ($155 work permit fee + $100 open work permit fee)

You must not become inadmissible

- e.g., criminality, medical conditions, misrepresentations, etc.

International Students - PGWP Eligibility Via Online Studies

- Immigration, Refugees and Citizenship Canada is making it easier for international student graduates to be eligible for the Post-Graduation Work Permit (PGWP) during the pandemic. Previously, online learning would not count towards a PGWP application.
- Eligibility requirements include international students who are enrolled in a PGWP-eligible program, and whose study program begins in any semester between spring 2020 and fall 2021. It also applies to those whose study program was already in progress in March 2020 when Canada first went into lockdown.
- The PGWP allows international student graduates who studied at a Canadian Designated Learning Institution (DLI) to work for any employer anywhere in Canada for up to three years.

Before Applying for Permanent Residence

- Do you meet the basic eligibility requirements for the program?
- Are you admissible to Canada?
 - Criminality, medical issues, misrepresentation, non-compliance may render you inadmissible
- Plan ahead
 - Be aware of expiry dates of your temporary status in Canada

Permanent Residence - Overview

- Options for applying for Permanent Residence (PR) in Canada:
 - Express Entry
 - Canadian Experience Class
 - Federal Skilled Worker
 - Provincial Nominee Program
 - Family Sponsorship
- You must maintain your temporary status while awaiting PR
- You must maintain your permanent residence after a successful application

Express Entry

- Express Entry is IRCC's system to manage how people with skilled work experience apply to immigrate to Canada
- Must first be eligible for Permanent Residence under the Federal Skilled Worker (FSW), Canadian Experience Class (CEC) or Federal Skilled Trades (FSTP)
- If eligible to apply, candidates submit their profile to IRCC and will be ranked against others in a “pool” of potential candidates
- On a regular basis, IRCC will draw top candidates from the pool and send them an Invitation to Apply (ITA)
- Only candidates who receive an ITA will be able to apply for permanent residence

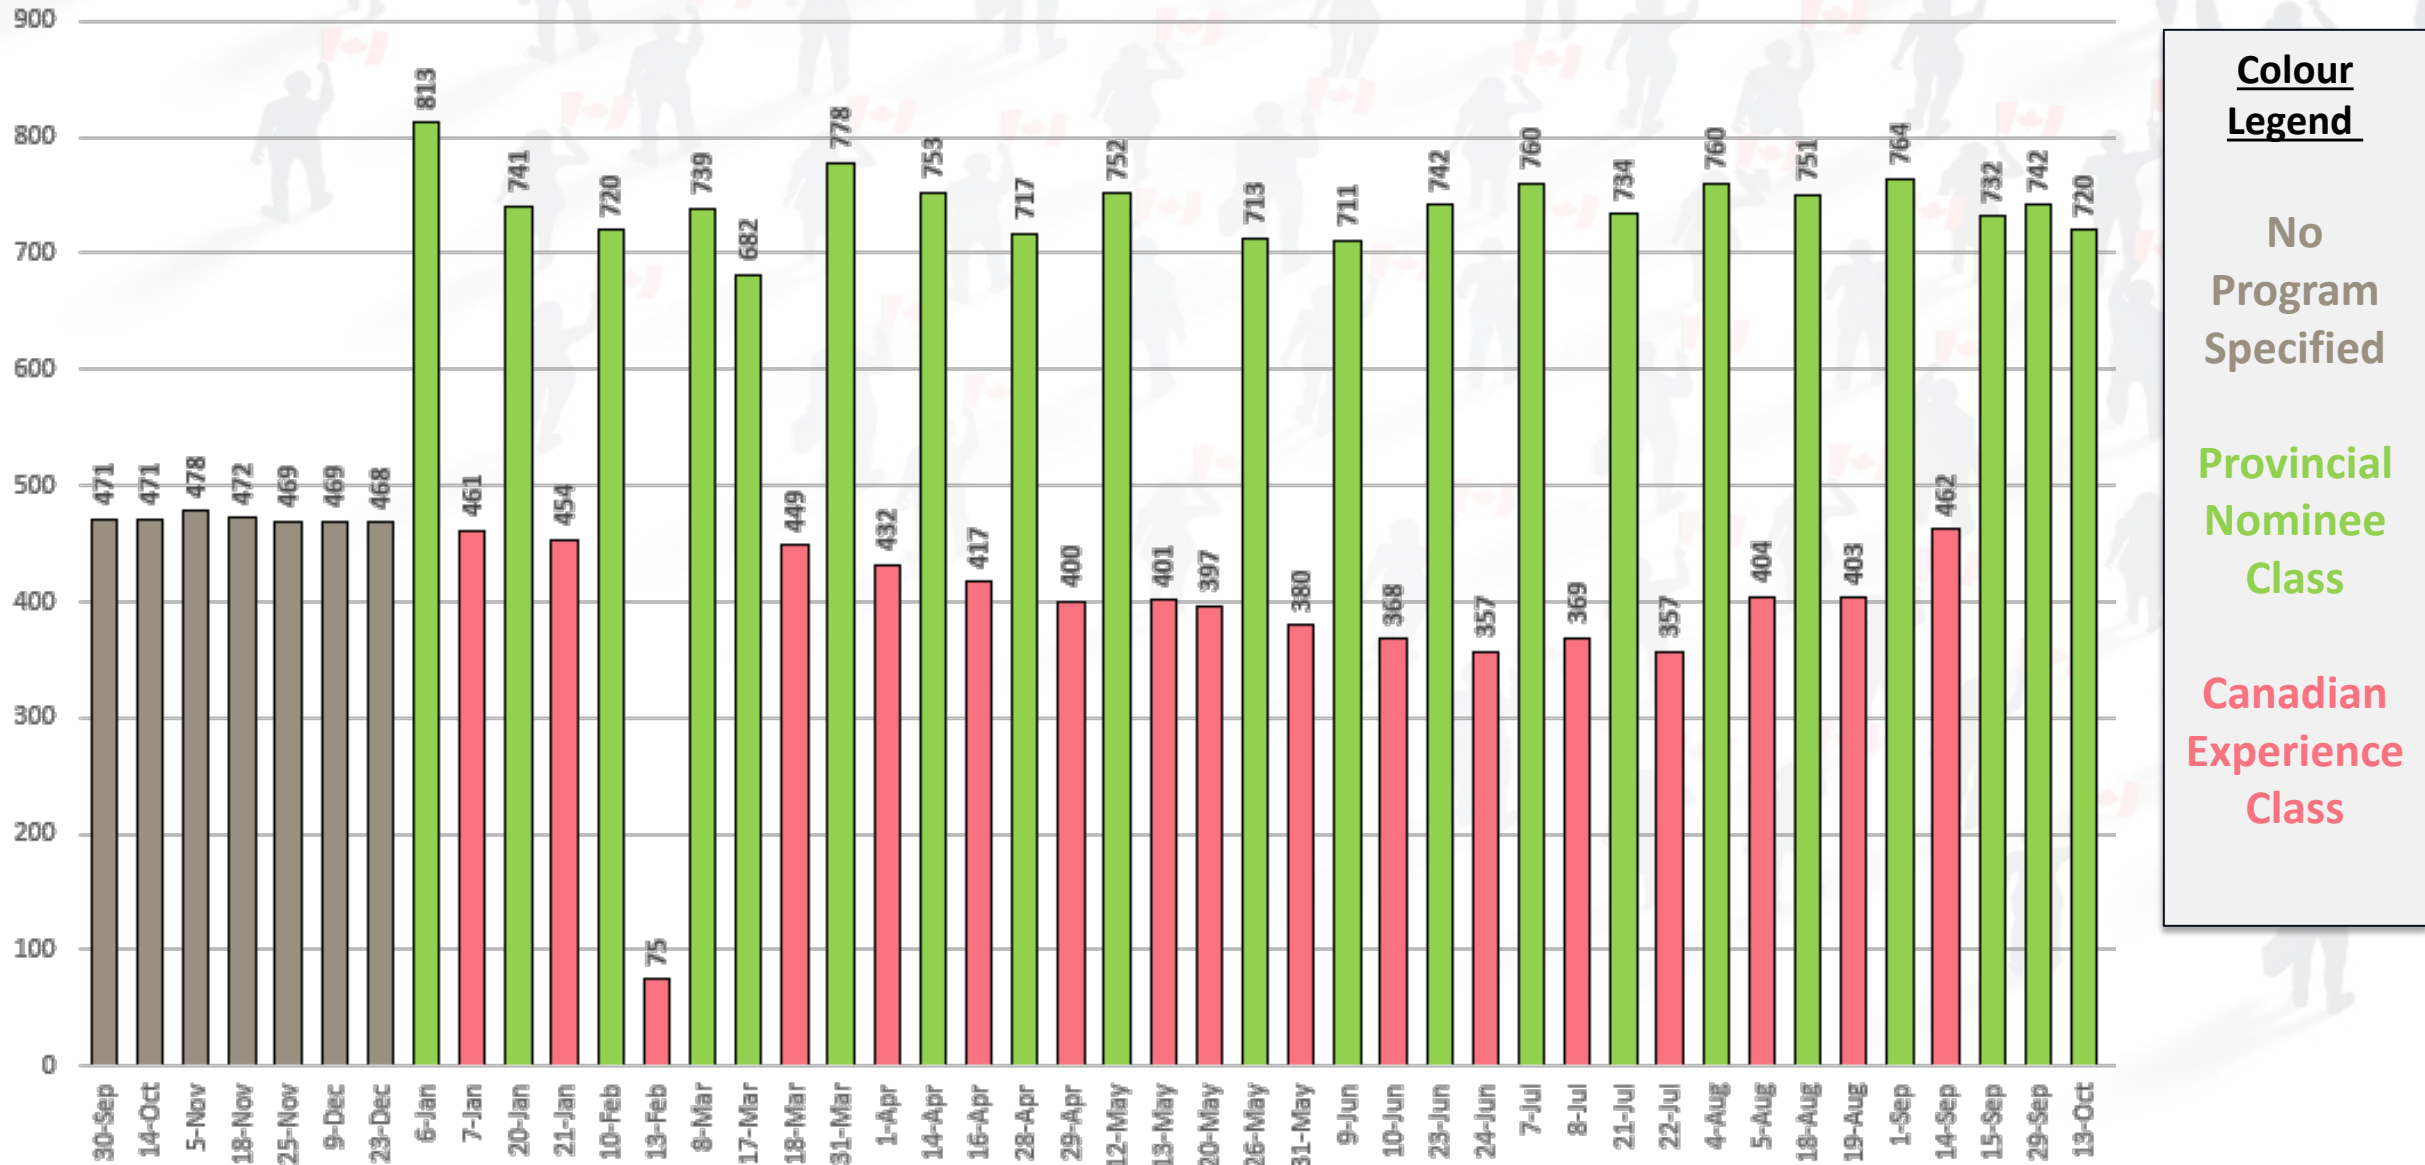

Canadian Experience Class

- 12 months of authorized, qualifying work experience in the previous 36 months
 - 1,560 hours total / 30 hours per week, continuous full-time or part-time equivalent
 - High skilled position (NOC 0, A or B)
 - Self-employed work does not count
- Must demonstrate English or French proficiency
 - NOC 0 and A: CLB 7 in each ability
 - NOC B: CLB 5 in each ability
- Must be admissible to Canada

Federal Skilled Worker Program

- For workers with NOC 0, A or B skill level work experience
- Canadian or foreign work experience
- 1-year continuous paid work experience in the last 10 years
- Must demonstrate a CLB 7 language proficiency in each ability
- Educational credential assessment for foreign education to show Canadian equivalency
- Must meet “points” requirement (67 points)
- Proof of funds

Express Entry – Ranking System

Express Entry – Invitation to Apply

- Candidates who are invited to apply for permanent residence will only have 60 days to submit a complete application to IRCC
- Serious implications for misrepresentation
 - Application refused
 - Inadmissibility finding
 - Barred for five (5) years from applying for permanent residence status
- IRCC aims to process the applications in 6 months
- Candidates who do not receive an invitation to apply within 12 months must re-enter the pool

International Experience Canada (IEC)

- LMIA exempt work permits for citizens of certain countries, below either 30 or 35 years of age depending on the country. Valid for up to 2 years and potentially renewable depending on country
- Three categories: Working Holiday, Young Professionals, Co-op/Internship
- Pre-arranged job not always required
- IRCC regularly invites eligible candidates from the IEC pools to apply for work permits

Mobilité Francophone

- The Mobilité francophone stream is aimed at attracting skilled francophone workers and encouraging them to settle in francophone minority communities outside Quebec
- Should have French as their language of daily habitual use – typically prove French language abilities through transcripts from education in the French language. They can also take a French language test if transcripts are unavailable
- This is for skilled occupations only – NOCs 0, A or B
- The applicant must have a job offer outside Quebec, but the work does NOT need to be conducted in French

Labour Market Impact Assessment (LMIA)

- The LMIA-exempt Work Permit categories (i.e. ICT, FTAs, Reciprocal) will be considered first, however where none of these apply, an LMIA will be required to hire the Temporary Foreign Worker.
- The purpose of the LMIA is to ensure that there are no Canadians who can perform the job that is being requested and that foreign workers are compensated according to prevailing wages for their position
- Recruitment (i.e. advertising) period of 4 weeks to find Canadians or permanent residents for the position being offered
- $1,000 government fee
- Employers may be required to demonstrate transition plans or be subject to caps on the percentage of foreign workers in their workforce
- Work permits based on a positive LMIA will strengthen a candidate's permanent residence application

LMIA under the Global Talent Stream

- Under the Global Talent Stream, LMIA applications are recruitment exempt and are processed in 10 business days for 80% of applications.
- Consular work permit applications will be eligible for expedited processing of 2 weeks for 80% of applications. If the foreign worker is visa exempt, the work permit application can also be presented at any Canadian border.
- Eligibility for LMIA under the Global Talent Stream: either Category A (high growth, high potential) or Category B (Global Talent Occupations list).

Eligibility for the Global Talent Stream

Category B:

Companies may be eligible for Category B of the Global Talent Stream if they are seeking to hire highly-skilled foreign workers to fill positions in occupations found on the Global Talent occupations list.
