Former Toronto Maple Leafs forward Kasper Kapanen has been issued a fine of €108,700 (approximately US$117,000) for driving under the influence in his home country of Finland.

According to a new report from Finnish publication YLE, Kapanen, who currently plays for the St. Louis Blues, was caught driving drunk in Siilinjärvi back in August.

Initially, the prosecutor requested that the 27-year-old serve a 45-day prison sentence, but the court settled on a fine.

According to police reports, Kapanen was pulled over while driving home from the airport for going 67 km/h in a 50 km/h zone at around 2 am. Kapanen, who had a passenger on board, then blew an alcohol level of 0.56 milligrams per litre into a breathalyzer, which is 0.03 above the legal limit.
